

Puerto Rico Adopts Law Prohibiting Discrimination on Basis of Sexual Orientation, Gender Identity

Date: 5.29.2013

---

Puerto Rico Governor Alejandro García Padilla has signed legislation barring employers from discriminating against any employee or employment candidate on the basis of his or her sexual orientation or gender identity. Senate Bill No. 238, signed May 29, 2013, amends Puerto Rico's Anti-Discrimination Statute, Act No. 100 of June 30, 1959, as amended, and is effective immediately.

As with other protected categories (such as race, color, sex, age, marital status and social origin or condition), an employee or applicant for employment who is a victim of discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity may be entitled to reinstatement and to a sum equal to twice the amount of damages sustained on account of the discriminatory act. In addition, an individual who commits a discriminatory act could be charged with a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, could be punished by a fine of up to $5,000 or by imprisonment in jail for a term not greater than 90 days, or by both, at the discretion of the court.

Employers should consider revising their policies to comply with the new protected categories. If you have any questions about this or other workplace developments, please contact Juan Felipe Santos, at (787) 523-7939 or Juan.Santos@jacksonlewis.com, of our San Juan office, or the Jackson Lewis attorney with whom you regularly work.

---

© 2013, Jackson Lewis LLP. This Update is provided for informational purposes only. It is not intended as legal advice nor does it create an attorney/client relationship between Jackson Lewis LLP and any readers or recipients. Readers should consult counsel of their own choosing to discuss how these matters relate to their individual circumstances. Reproduction in whole or in part is prohibited without the express written consent of Jackson Lewis LLP.

This Update may be considered attorney advertising in some states. Furthermore, prior results do not guarantee a similar outcome.

Jackson Lewis LLP represents management exclusively in workplace law and related litigation. Our attorneys are available to assist employers in their compliance efforts and to represent employers in matters before state and federal courts and administrative agencies. For more information, please contact the attorney(s) listed or the Jackson Lewis attorney with whom you regularly work.

practices

Management Education

